"I was the oldest of my father's family we came to Crawford Co., MO. when I was quite small brought up in the occupation of farming on what is known as Crows Creek in the grand old Meremac hills. Here I lived until I was grown. About this time I was seized with a desire to study medicine and in 1893 I entered the Marion Sims College of Medicine in St. Louis, MO. After taking a 3-year course in medicine I decided to practice between terms and in the spring of 1896 I located at Old Mines in Washington Co., MO. Here I practiced medicine for about 12 years never taking my M.D. degree."

MARION SIMS-BEAUMONT COLLEGE OF MEDICINE St. Louis, Missouri 1890-1903

http://www.lostcolleges.com/#!marion-sims-beaumont-medical-college/c1h9f

Marion Sims College of Medicine was founded by a group of St. Louis physicians in 1890 and named for Marion Sims, a physician regarded as the "Father of Gynecology."

A new building had been completed by the time classes opened on October 1, 1890. The first class contained 139 students from 15 states. A year later when the course had been expanded to three years, 271 students were enrolled. In 1893 the Rebekah Hospital was added.

In 1894 with the addition of the dental school, enrollment topped 300. By the end of the decade the medical program had been expanded to four years, and the dental program to three.

In 1900 Marion Sims College consolidated with the Beaumont Hospital Medical College (founded 1884), leading to an increase in enrollment. The 1903 Mirror-Speculum shows a student body of 368 in the medical college and 163 in the dental college.

The location of the Marion Sims College of Medicine was the southeast corner of Grand Avenue and Caroline Street. The yearbook notes that many considered this to be a poor location, but soon the city moved in that direction. Additionally, this location attracted many lower income residents in need of the school's free dispensary. The medical school complex soon included the Rebekah Hospital and the dental school. This location also made the school attractive to the nearby St. Louis University, which purchased the college in 1903.

The archivists report that all of the original buildings are gone. Today the site of the complex is the location for the St. Louis University Hospital.

The Center for Anatomical Science and Education at Saint Louis University traces its roots through the former Department of Anatomy and Neurobiology to the founding of the American Association of Anatomists.

The opening paper at the first annual meeting of the Association in 1888 was presented by Dr. August Bernays, who was a member of the Department at that time.

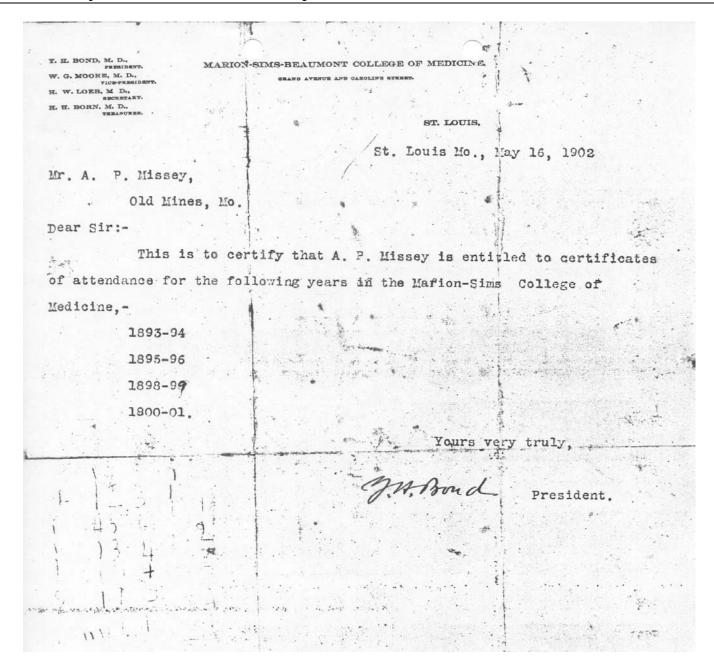

Actually, the School was called the Marion-Sims-Beaumont College of Medicine until 1903 when it became the Saint Louis University School of Medicine. The Department of Anatomy was the first of the five original departments organized at the time Saint Louis University took over.

Note: I imagine when the St. Louis University acquired the Marion-Sims-Beaumont College of Medicine in 1903 and renamed Saint Louis University School of Medicine, the tuition probably increased beyond Albert Paris Missey's ability to attend and finish his degree. Also, under new management, I imagine they changed the curriculum and requirements for obtaining a physician's degree...you know the game, requiring more schooling so they could increase revenue.

Old Mines, Missouri

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Old Mines, Missouri

Old Mines (French: La Vieille Mine) is the name of an unincorporated community and surrounding area in southeast Missouri that were settled by French colonists in the early 18th century when the area was part of the Illinois Country of New France. [1]

The early settlers came to mine for lead, and their descendants still inhabit the area where, through a combination of geographic and cultural isolation, ^[2] they maintained a distinctive French culture well into the 20th century.

As recently as the late 1980s there may have been a thousand native speakers of the region's Missouri French dialect. This culturally distinct population has sometimes been referred to as "paw-paw French" and lives in an amorphous area in Washington, Jefferson, and St. Francois counties roughly 15 miles (24 km) either side of a line from Potosi to De Soto. The village of Old Mines itself is in northeastern Washington County six miles north of Potosi.

http://omahs.weebly.com/

Old Mines, Missouri is the first settlement in the state and in 1836 the original land grants claimed by 31 of the early settlers were approved by the U.S. Government and deeded to those families. This grant became known as "The Old Mines Concession."

BY Floyd Thomas Pratt, F.H.C., M.A.G.I. 1st Edition 2009 2nd Edition 2014 3rd Edition 2015

This concession lies in the same area as the territory awarded to Philip Francois Renault by the French Government, part of the "Pays des Illinois," or Illinois Country, explored and settled by the French during the late 17th and early 18th centuries. The region was then transferred to Spain, then briefly back to France and sold to the U.S. as part of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803.

They farmed, mined, raised their families, built a brick church in 1828 which still serves 350 families today. After the Civil War, rich deposits of barite, locally called "tiff" were discovered in Washington County and surface mined for 100 years.

Descendants of these same settlers continue to own some of the land and live there preserving the Missouri French dialect and culture in spite of a changing and growing population.

For an interesting account of some of my French ancestors especially in the Sainte Genevieve area read the following, "Sainte Genevieve, Missouri in the 18th Century" 1994 revised 2011 by Floyd Thomas Pratt F.H.C., M.A.G.I. This article can be accessed at https://openlibrary.org/people/floydpratt59/lists under the list labeled... View From The Mast.

The following ledger is an account of the people and charges Doctor Albert Paris Missey charged his customers while he was a practicing physician mostly at Old Mines, Breton Township, Washington County, Missouri and due to the 1926 date in Bliss and maybe Mineral Point, Missouri.

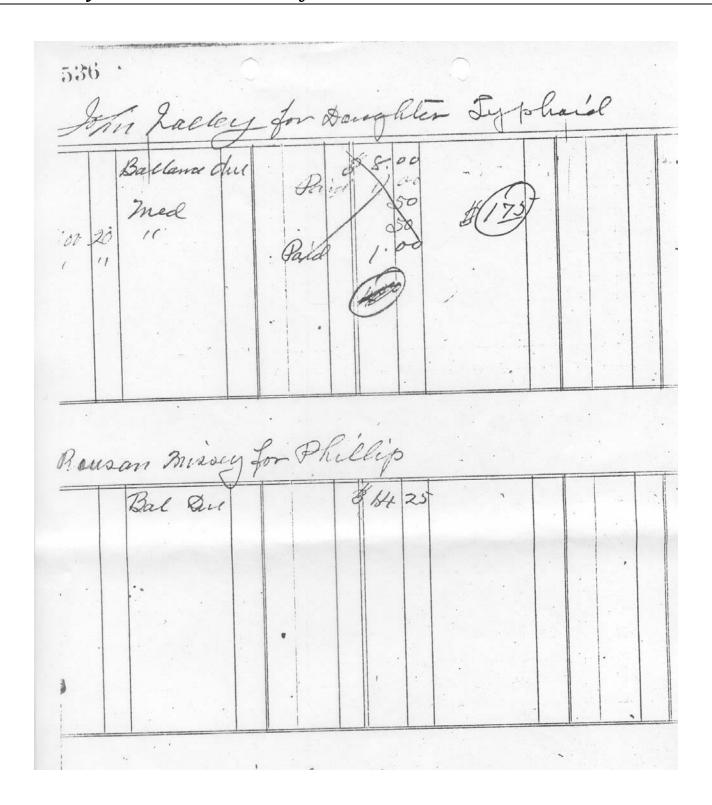

He attended the Marion-Sims College of Medicine, Grand Avenue and Caroline Street, Saint Louis (city), Missouri, from 1893 to 1894, 1895-1896, 1898-1899, and 1900-1901.

Month and days are listed in the left column but no years, except 1926 on one page.

Only a few of the names listed are familiar to me. Therefore, I did not include a detailed family report on his patients.

Even after he changed vocations in 1908 and was ordained a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, he stated in his journal he continued to practice medicine when required to do so for his parishioners.

In my 52,000-named database, I have accumulated over the last 40 years, I have never run across anyone who has achieved the status of medical practitioner and ordained minister.

Further study of this extraordinary man can be found at the following.

Floyd Thomas Pratt F.H.C., M.A.G.I.

At the age of 19, Mr. Pratt embarked on a career in law enforcement. This experience gave him training in detective and investigative skills. Little did Mr. Pratt know, how useful these skills would be in the field of genealogy.

Floyd started his family research career in 1975 after becoming a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. His first calling as a new member was to serve in the newly created genealogical department or known today as the Family History Center in the Springfield, Missouri ward. This two-year calling gave Mr. Pratt a tremendous amount of experience helping others to research their families.

In fact, he felt family research came easy and required little effort on his part. In reality, years of reading and studying increased his expertise and he made it look easy to others. Over the course of several years, Mr. Pratt was asked by his church to instruct several family history courses. This experience established a deep profound love for family and ancestors. It was not uncommon for Mr. Pratt to spend 4 to 8 hours a day researching and compiling family histories in addition to his duties, as an entrepreneur in the insurance business.

The first major achievement for Mr. Pratt was a breakthrough on his Pratt family back to the early 1800's. Due to confusion with Pratt ancestors and not satisfied with just the direct line research, Mr. Pratt branched out to research all connected lines and allied families.

This dedication led to 50,000 individuals in his database and has achieved expert status for Mr. Pratt on the families of middle and eastern Missouri, eastern and western Tennessee and central North Carolina.

Concerning Mr. Pratt's style of research, he is a strong supporter of the "hands on" approach. When he took family vacations, they usually went to libraries, cemeteries, courthouses, National Archive centers, and visited family members in various states. He attended family reunions and obtained his material from the actual sources when possible.

Being a researcher of the highest degree, in 1991, Mr. Pratt created ublications

He began to offer to the public, a series of books titled, Pratt Progenitor Papers. This series of volumes are a collection of legal documents, stories, pictures and historical presentations concerning the families of Missouri, Tennessee and North Carolina.

The first three Volumes were released to the public in 1991 and were issued to 18 different libraries including the Library of Congress and the St. Louis Public Library. The next 11 volumes were sent to the Salt Lake Genealogical Library with 60 volumes scheduled for publication.

In 1996, Mr. Pratt created the General Justitute to further the education of serious researchers.

The Demealogical Institute offers a series of educational materials to teach and instruct the novice as well as advanced researchers, procedures Mr. Pratt has tried and tested to be of great value in family history research. These courses offer "a hands on" curriculum designed to instruct in investigative, deductive reasoning and logical techniques for tracking your family history. Many have found a treasure chest of knowledge when undertaking these courses.

Mr. Pratt has taken the hobby of genealogy and has enhanced it into a science. Heavy on instructions concerning documentation, research procedures, alternative sources and common public records, these courses are valuable tools for the family history researcher. Mr. Pratt has been informed by researchers his material found in his publications are recorded as source validation for such organizations as the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) and the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR).

Upon completion of the educational courses from the G enealogical I institute. (M.A.G.I.) Written in easy to read format with detailed explanations concerning various subjects of interest to family history researchers.

Mr. Pratt's ability in family history research has amazed many experienced researchers. When Mr. Pratt is asked for help concerning their "brick wall" in their family research, his quick wit and logical mind rapid fires instructions and procedures so fast they cannot write the material quickly enough. Little do they realize, this knowledge has been acquired over 40 years of research.

In June of 2000, Mr. Pratt undertook a new and unprecedented task. Outside of Washington, Saint John's Township, Franklin County, Missouri is an old cemetery called the Johnson-Caldwell Cemetery aka; misnamed the McAllister Cemetery. This cemetery has many pioneer heroes and ancestors of various descendants from that region. Some of the inhabitants were born in the 1750's and arrived in the Missouri Territory shortly after the 1803 Louisiana Purchase.

Mr. Pratt recorded all the information off of the headstones including every person in the cemetery and researched each individual related to Mr. Pratt or not. 1000 man-hours and two years later, he published the book "JOHNSON-CALDWELL CEMETERY OF FRANKLIN COUNTY, MISSOURI".

Obtaining newspapers, legal documents, talking to ancestors and researching various sources for any and all information concerning the history of the cemetery and the inhabitants produced this master text.

What makes this book unique is based on several factors. First, it is the only book to report on each inhabitant, their birth and activities throughout their life until their death, including their ancestors, spouses and children. Second, this book contains a unique index, listing the individual and their father's name if known. This is extremely helpful when several individuals have the same given name.

Upon examination, professional researchers have hailed this body of work as a masterpiece and a standard in which all future research should be based. No one has ever produced a body of work as unique and professional as this publication.

As the years moved on, Mr. Pratt became concerned about his 40 years of hard research work of various family histories. After a serious heart attack in 2012, Mr. Pratt decided to post his collective bodies of work on a website making them available to all interested researchers without compensation.

After careful consideration, Mr. Pratt chose the website www.openlibrary.org. "Open Library" is a repository of millions of digital books available to the public for free.

My Gifts to You

The above list represents completed and proposed editions to the Pratt Progenitor Papers series as of this date. As I complete these volumes, I will post them on Open Library at the following address...

In my 40-year tenure in the world of Genealogy I have accumulated over 53,000 names in my main database. This accumulation was a direct result from a commandment I received when I first joined The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints back in 1975.

As I was growing up in my youth, I became very familiar with my stepmother's family, including her siblings, cousins, aunts and uncles and nephews, nieces and parents and grandparents.

My father and birthmother divorced when I was 1 year old, so I had lost contact through the years with my birthmother and did not know anything about her side of the family.

Knowing the difficulty the Lord has commanded the Latter Day Saints in pursuit of their ancestors for the all important and necessary temple ordinances, recently revealed to mankind, I wanted to research my father's ancestors and my stepmothers ancestors since I knew them and was familiar with them personally and did not know anything about my birth mother's line.

So, it seemed wisdom to write to the General Authorities of our church and seek permission to research these two lines of my ancestors. In other words, I wanted permission to adopt myself into my stepmother's ancestry.

When I received their letter sometime in 1976, I eagerly wanted permission to pursue my stepmother's line.

As I opened the letter from the first presidency of the Church, they congratulated me on my interest in pursuing my family history and further stated, the Lord has given me a great opportunity and responsibility...they stated I "Get To" research my father's line, my stepmother's line AND my birth mother's line.

This response to my request came as a shock to me, but nevertheless, I accepted the Lord's decision and for the last 40 years I have pursued all three lines thereby, increasing my tree to...as of this date 53,000 souls.

Also, I ran into a problem when researching my Pratt family line. I could not make any connections to anybody after my 3rd Great Grandfather; Henry Pratt. This lack of information on him and his siblings forced me to research all the known Pratts in Tennessee, North Carolina, Maryland and surrounding states trying to locate his parentage.

As some of you already know, this quest has produced a multitude of books concerning my quest for answers, no less as great as Alex Haley's quest, which produced the mini-series, "Roots". It appears we both were motivated at about the same time in the mid 1970's.

With this influx of related, non-related and various families, associations began to grow in my database. With so much information accumulated over the years, I decided my research was beyond what the normal family history researchers would pursue.

While in my early tenure as a volunteer in the Family History Center of our church, I was instructed in the proper techniques and procedures concerning researching, validating, confirming and verifying our ancestor's history always with an eye focused on qualifying them for their temple ordinances.

This training focused on details and documented proof so we could complete their ordinances they so eagerly are waiting.

This blessing from the Lord for a keen eye to detail has allowed me to assist and render help where help has been requested. We have a song we sing in our church, which states, "Where much has been given, much is required." Luke 12:48

I have been truly blessed in family history research, in fact when I was listening to the missionary lessons before I joined this church, when the missionaries began to explain the purpose of the temples, the Lord witnessed to me personally through the Holy Ghost and I KNEW this was true and Holy work and after baptism have been assisting those in pursuit of their ancestors...members and non-members alike.

So, my reader, if you see a name on the above list and you checked the Pratt Progenitor Papers list in Open Library and the book you are interested in has not been posted, email me and let me know and I will begin work on finalizing the book for you. Floydpratt59@gmail.com or floydpratt59@yahoo.com

It takes me from 3 months to a year to complete one of these books and with over 300 publications accredited to my name; I have been actively engaged in preparing these stories, books, articles and commentaries for publication. I have almost 90 publications completed and posted so I am very active in this endeavor

I am afraid my time on Earth will run out before I get them all complete and posted. So, I am working all my free time to complete as much as I can before I am called to assist the work across the veil.

It has been fun and I am looking forward to meeting those people and putting faces with the names I have cherished and loved through my research. As is stated in 1 Corinthians 13:12... "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known."

Looking forward to meeting all of you.

With Christ-like love.

Floyd Thomas Pratt F.H.C., M.A.G.I.

At the age of 19, Mr. Pratt embarked on a career in law enforcement. This experience gave him training in detective and investigative skills. Little did Mr. Pratt know, how useful these skills would be in the field of genealogy.

Floyd started his family research career in 1975 after becoming a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. His first calling as a new member was to serve in the newly created genealogical department or known today as the Family History Center in the Springfield, Missouri ward. This two-year calling gave Mr. Pratt a tremendous amount of experience helping others to research their families.

In fact, he felt family research came easy and required little effort on his part. In reality, years of reading and studying increased his expertise and he made it look easy to others. Over the course of several years, Mr. Pratt was asked by his church to instruct several family history courses. This experience established a deep profound love for family and ancestors. It was not uncommon for Mr. Pratt to spend 4 to 8 hours a day researching and compiling family histories in addition to his duties, as an entrepreneur in the insurance business.

The first major achievement for Mr. Pratt was a breakthrough on his Pratt family back to the early 1800's. Due to confusion with Pratt ancestors and not satisfied with just the direct line research, Mr. Pratt branched out to research all connected lines and allied families.

This dedication led to 50,000 individuals in his database and has achieved expert status for Mr. Pratt on the families of middle and eastern Missouri, eastern and western Tennessee and central North Carolina.

Concerning Mr. Pratt's style of research, he is a strong supporter of the "hands on" approach.
